RULE NO.: RULE TITLE:

5JER23-4 Volatility Standards for Gasoline

SPECIFIC REASONS FOR FINDING AN IMMEDIATE DANGER TO THE PUBLIC HEALTH, SAFETY OR WELFARE: Due to the Russian war in Ukraine and the resulting limitations on the purchase and use of Russian crude oil, the typical movement of fuel into the United States has been interrupted, reducing the amount of available fuel, and affecting its distribution. In addition, the Organization of the Oil Exporting Countries (OPEC) recently announced an unexpected reduction in crude oil output by OPEC+ member countries, creating further market pressure. At the same time, U.S. refining capacity has been reduced in the wake of multiple refinery closures, even while gasoline demand remains higher than average. Pursuant to adopted national fuel standards, fuel volatility requirements are shifting to accommodate the changing seasons, however, the United States Environmental Protection Agency has determined that the factors outlined above have created “extreme and unusual fuel [] supply circumstances” that will prevent the distribution of an adequate supply of compliant gasoline to consumers. Noncompliant fuel remains available, and its sale could help alleviate fuel supply issues. On August 28, 2023, the EPA issued a Reid Vapor Pressure Fuel Waiver, temporarily waiving federal fuel vapor pressure standards for fuel blends containing gasoline and between 9 and 15 percent denatured anhydrous ethanol (E15) in order to address this crisis. If Florida’s volatility standards are not also adjusted to account for this extraordinary situation, there may be a shortage of lawful fuel for sale.

REASON FOR CONCLUDING THAT THE PROCEDURE IS FAIR UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES: This emergency rule was initiated following issuance of an EPA waiver. Its terms apply to all fuel suppliers and will help to ensure a consistent supply of fuel in the state, while alleviating additional strain on Florida’s fuel market. As this is an unprecedented situation, prompt action based on information regarding recent developments in the fuel industry is both necessary and fair.

SUMMARY: This emergency rule allows fuels of different volatility classes than those set forth in ASTM International designation D4814-20a, as adopted in rule 5J-21.001, F.A.C., for the periods indicated.

THE PERSON TO BE CONTACTED REGARDING THE EMERGENCY RULE IS: Richard Kimsey, Director of Consumer Services, 2005 Apalachee Parkway, Tallahassee, FL 32399, (850)410-3662.

THE FULL TEXT OF THE EMERGENCY RULE IS:

5JER23-4 Volatility Standards for Gasoline Vapor Pressure Requirements. It shall be lawful to introduce into wholesale terminal storage tanks and to offer for sale at retail outlets, gasoline containing at least nine (9) percent and up to and including fifteen (15) percent ethanol by volume with a vapor pressure of no more than 1.0 psi above the applicable vapor pressure class maximums, as specified in ASTM International designation D4814-20a. This rule shall be in effect on August 30, 2023, and will continue through September 15, 2023.

RULE NO.: RULE TITLE:

5JER23-5 Volatility Standards for Gasoline

SPECIFIC REASONS FOR FINDING AN IMMEDIATE DANGER TO THE PUBLIC HEALTH, SAFETY OR WELFARE: Due to severe weather that has resulted from Hurricane Idalia, the typical movement of fuel into Florida has been interrupted, slowing the distribution of fuel. Pursuant to adopted national fuel standards, fuel volatility requirements will shift after September 15, 2023, to accommodate the changing seasons, however, the United States Environmental Protection Agency has determined that “extreme and unusual fuel [] supply circumstance” exists that will prevent the distribution of an adequate supply of compliant gasoline to consumers. Class C fuel is available, and its sale could alleviate fuel supply issues in the state. On August 30, 2023, the EPA issued a Fuel Waiver, temporarily waiving federal fuel quality standards in specified areas in order to address this crisis. If Florida’s volatility standards are not also adjusted to account for this extraordinary situation, there may be a shortage of lawful fuel for sale.

REASON FOR CONCLUDING THAT THE PROCEDURE IS FAIR UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES: This emergency rule was initiated to ensure a consistent supply of fuel in Florida and to help alleviate fuel shortages. As this is an unprecedented and rapidly evolving situation, prompt action based on information regarding recent developments in the fuel industry is both necessary and fair.

SUMMARY: This emergency rule allows fuels of different volatility classes than those set forth in ASTM International designation D4814-20a, as adopted in rule 5J-21.001, F.A.C., for the periods indicated.
